

2: Sunset Point

Sunset Point is the busiest single location in the entire park. In this iconic view, looking into multitudes of hoodoos known as the Silent City, the Science Hill tower would be near the center of the sightline. While many park visitors may not notice a cell tower from this location, keen observers may want to digitally remove it from their photographs after the fact. The tower would become increasingly visible as one would hike toward Inspiration Point along the Rim Trail (NRHP #95000422).
