

An email originally sent on January 30th:

“Dear [seasonal worker],

Please be advised that the National Park Service is unable to fill the Recreation Fee Technician, GS-0503-S position at [national park name and job location] at this time. As such, your job offer has been rescinded at management request.

Should the bureau be able to fill the position again, another announcement will be posted in due course. Thank you for your continued Federal employment. You are encouraged to visit <http://usajobs.gov> to view Federal employment opportunities.

Sincerely,

[name]
National Park Service”
