

Association of Plastic Recyclers (APR)
Statement Oct. 1, 2025

"Due to the rapidly changing regulatory landscape on fluorinated plastic packaging, including but not limited to California SB 343, APR has placed APR Design Recognition for packaging or technologies that contain intentionally added fluorinated components or ingredients on hold and is not renewing or accepting new applications.

This position was developed to minimize conflict between APR Design Recognition and current regulatory landscape and will be in effect until these regulatory issues are resolved at which point we will reevaluate."
