Hi Marian,

I'm writing to confirm our conversation yesterday:

The Agency anticipates roughly 5,000 records located in the national and Alaska offices. Because some of the records likely contain confidential commercial information that would require an additional level of review, the Agency estimates that production could take up to 90 days. The Agency therefore proposes to release responsive documents on a rolling basis, in the interim providing the Court with monthly status reports.

Please confirm that this statement is accurate; if so, PEER consents to this proposal as a way of proceeding with this case.

Thanks,
Laura
